The stone fireplace

The stone fireplace—symbol of warmth and gathering place when work is over—becomes the center of attraction in a living area, a major enhancement in a dining room, an unexpected amenity in a bedroom. Outdoors, it adds another dimension to living.

Rustic or formal, ambitious or unassuming, Cultured Stone® fireplaces make almost any space more inviting. On these pages, 36 different fireplaces for 36 very different homes.

The look and feel of stone

Each Cultured Stone® color and texture is made of its own blend of Portland cement and natural aggregates, cast in molds taken from carefully-selected natural stone. Even on the closest examination, Cultured Stone® wall veneer looks and feels exactly like the natural stone that inspired it.

The Cultured Stone® advantage

Cultured Stone® products are light in weight and easy to install. This gives you unlimited flexibility in the design and location of your fireplace, even where full-thickness natural stone won't work.

It's hard to imagine a more practical answer for fireplaces. Cultured Stone® products have been tested and listed by the Underwriters Laboratory as noncombustible. Installed, they cost far less than natural stone.

The nineteen Cultured Stone® textures and Cultured Brick® offer more than 80 colors that replicate the natural products so faithfully that you can't tell them from the originals.

Many of these colors are specifically selected to harmonize with today's roofing and exterior wall finishes, and some textures are designed for installation without grouting.

The outdoor fireplace

There's no reason why the stone fireplace has to be confined indoors. Outdoor fireplaces and barbecues lend themselves to as many varied and imaginative treatments as the indoor ones do. And Cultured Stone®, after all, is an outdoor product. Some of the earliest Cultured Stone® exterior installations have been in place for almost 40 years without visible fading or color change.

The stone chimney

If a stone fireplace is a symbol of warmth, the stone chimney is a symbol of permanence—a sign that the home is built to last, here to stay.

On a chimney, the light weight of Cultured Stone® veneer allows installation over any structurally sound surface without the need for additional footings or wall ties.

Cultured Stone® products are durable and colorfast, indoors or out, covered by a 50-year limited warranty. Like natural stone, it's made to last.
